Louth Civic Trust

Louth Civic Trust is an independent local charity encouraging community pride and passion for the history and identity of its buildings, streets and public places. It aims to protect and manage change in the town's landscape and architectural heritage through campaigning, education and action.

The Trust has been successfully campaigning for Louth's architectural heritage and environment since its foundation in 1967. Its members are active campaigners who organise events and run schemes to recognise good practice and achievement in projects or buildings that will make a positive impact on the town's built environment.

The Trust is also part of Civic Voice, a national organisation that campaigns on behalf of civic societies across the UK
